About TJ Sullivan ...

TJ Sullivan was born and raised in the City of Detroit. A graduate of the University of Kentucky, he's written for the Los Angeles Times, Chicago Tribune, and The Dallas Morning News. He began his journalism career as the Ketchum, Idaho, bureau chief of the Wood River Journal, which has since closed. He covered horse racing, prep sports, public schools and city hall for the Santa Fe New Mexican, and was the statehouse reporter for The Albuquerque Tribune, which has since closed. TJ's investigative reporting and feature writing for the Ventura County (CA) Star received many awards, including top honors from the Society of Professional Journalists (SPJ), the Associated Press News Executives Council, The American Association of Sunday and Feature Editors, Best of the West, the California Newspaper Publishers Association and the Los Angeles Press Club. He's also been commissioned a Kentucky Colonel, the highest honor awarded by the Commonwealth of Kentucky. TJ has mentored and instructed student journalists at California State University, Northridge; the University of California, Los Angeles, Daily Bruin, and through SPJ's The Working Press intern program.

TJ is married and lives in LA.
